There's Nothing Like Finals !!

Since 2000, the AFL has used the same structure for the finals season, with the top eight further broken down into two groups of four. The clubs/ players and the fans are happy with this structured system as the top four higher-placed teams are given a "double chance" should they lose in the first week of the finals. The NRL Finals structure is exactly the same but did not commence until 2010 .Should a drawn game occur In the case of a tied score, the teams will be faced with two five-minute periods of extra time to decide the match. If the sides are still unable to be separated after the second period, the siren won't sound, with the next team to score winning the match. Back in 2010 was a classic NRL draw after normal time but the Roosters finally beat the Tigers in the 101st minute of action. The 18th of October might seem light years away at present with footy finals but the eyes of the Racing World are already heavily fixed on this years $20 million Everest . The Hong Kong Champion sprinter Ka Ying Rising trained by Aussie David Hayes will be all the rage is already expected to start as short as $1.20 given the World Pool is operating on that day.
